FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
MARSHALL DIVISION

INGENIOSPEC, LLC,
Plaintiff,

v.

BOSE CORPORATION,
Defendant.

Case No. 2:24-cv-00822

Complaint for Patent Infringement

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

COMPLAINT FOR PATENT INFRINGEMENT

Plaintiff IngenioSpec, LLC (“IngenioSpec”) files this complaint against Defendants Bose Corporation (“Defendant” or “Bose”) alleging infringement of U.S. Patent Nos. 8,582,789, 11,829,518, 11,852,901, and 12,044,901. The Accused Products are wireless communication devices, wearable hearing devices, and/or hearing enhancement systems used, offered for sale, sold, and/or imported by Defendants to customers in the United States.

INTRODUCTION

1. This complaint arises from Bose’s unlawful infringement of the following United States patents owned by Plaintiff, which generally relate to wireless communications devices, wearable hearing devices, and/or audio systems: United States Patent Nos. 8,582,789 (“’789 patent”), 11,829,518 (“’518 patent”), 11,852,901 (“’2901 patent”) and 12,044,901 (“’4901 patent”) (collectively, the “Asserted Patents”).

PLAINTIFF INGENIOSPEC

2. Plaintiff IngenioSpec is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the state of California, with its principal place of business at 4010 Moorpark Avenue, Suite 211, San Jose, California 95117.

3. IngenioSpec has pioneered innovations in wearable electronics for over a decade. The cutting-edge wearable technology developed by IngenioSpec seamlessly integrates electronics into the wearable electronics for a variety of useful purposes that improve consumers' everyday lives. The discreet, stylish wearable products combine ease-of-use with compact, lightweight electronics.

4. IngenioSpec's electronics in head-worn wearable products provide elegant solutions, such as sensing harmful ultraviolet rays, tracking health indicators, taking pictures, recording video, enabling hands-free phone conversations, enhancing hearing, and playing music and videos.

5. IngenioSpec's head-worn wearable products include electronic headsets, such as wireless earbuds. These earbuds allow a user to control operations simply by voice based on voice recognition, or swiping or pressing the earbuds using touch control. These earbuds can offer dynamic noise cancellation. The life of the re-chargeable battery can be improved by sensing whether an earbud is being worn, with power utilization adjusted accordingly. If the earbud's battery level is low, the earbud can be easily re-charged by placing it into a charging case. The earbuds can be used in conjunction with a device, such as a mobile phone.

6. IngenioSpec's technology can also enable users to send and receive text messages, answer a call, or manage a notification. Further, text messages can be converted to voice, and voice messages can be converted to text, to enhance hands-free operations.

7. IngenioSpec’s technology can also promote user health. For example, the technology includes hearing assistance features to address mild and moderate hearing loss, by dynamically adjusting audio output from an earbud according to its user’s hearing profile. The headset can also be used to measure its user’s heart rate and monitor the user’s activity. During workouts, the headset can track and send your heart rate with exercise data to a mobile phone to promote your health.

8. IngenioSpec has a portfolio of more than sixty patents covering its head-worn wearable inventions, and has already licensed a portion of its patented technology to more than a dozen corporations.

17. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants in this action because Defendants have committed acts within the State of Texas, including in this District, giving rise to

COUNT I
INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 11,829,518

19. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

20. The claims of the '518 patent were issued by the United States Patent and Trademark Office and are presumed by statute to be valid. They are not directed to abstract ideas and moreover contain inventive concepts sufficient to ensure that the patent amounts to significantly more than a patent on a patent ineligible concept itself. The written description of the '518 patent describes in technical detail each limitation of the claims, allowing a skilled artisan to understand the scope of the claims and how the nonconventional and non-generic combination of claim limitations is patentably distinct from and improved upon what may have been considered conventional or generic in the art at the time of the invention.

21. On information and belief, Bose makes, uses, offers for sale, sells, and/or imports certain wireless electronic devices configured to produce audio output for a user and configured to removably couple to conductive contacts of a counterpart connector external to and separate from the wireless electronic device, including without limitation the Bose QuietComfort Ultra Earbuds (collectively, “’518 Accused Products”), that directly infringe, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, one or more claims of the ’518 patent. Identification of additional ’518 Accused Products may also be provided in infringement contentions disclosed pursuant to the Court’s scheduling order.

22. On information and belief, the ’518 Accused Products satisfy all claim limitations of one or more claims of the ’518 patent, including claim 1, as set forth in the preliminary infringement claim chart attached as Exhibit 5.

23. Bose also knowingly and intentionally induces infringement of one or more claims of the ’518 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b). For example, on June 20, 2024, Plaintiff sent Bose a letter conveying Plaintiff’s belief that Bose products practiced Plaintiff’s patents and required a license. In addition, through at least the filing and service of this Complaint, Bose has knowledge of the ’518 patent and the infringing nature of the ’518 Accused Products. Despite this knowledge of the ’518 patent, Bose continues to make, use, sell, and offer for sale the ’518 Accused Products, and to actively encourage and instruct customers and other companies to make, use, sell, import, and offer for sale the ’518 Accused Products in ways that directly infringe the ’518 patent. Bose does so knowing and intending that these companies and their customers will commit these infringing acts.

24. By making, using, offering for sale, selling and/or importing into the United States the '518 Accused Products, Bose has injured Plaintiff and is liable for infringement of the '518 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271.

25. As a result of Bose's infringement of the '518 patent, Plaintiff is entitled to monetary damages in an amount adequate to compensate for Bose's infringement, but in no event less than a reasonable royalty for the use made of the invention by Bose, together with interest and costs as fixed by the Court.

26. Bose's infringing activities have injured and will continue to injure Plaintiff, unless and until this Court enters an injunction prohibiting further infringement of the '518 patent, and, specifically, enjoining further manufacture, use, sale, importation, and/or offers for sale that come within the scope of the patent claims.

27. Bose also, within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. § 284, knowingly, willfully, recklessly, egregiously and wantonly continues to infringe the '518 patent through making, using, selling, offering to sell and/or importing '518 Accused Products with knowledge that these activities infringe the '518 patent. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to enhanced damages.

COUNT II

28. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference the foregoing paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

29. The claims of the '4901 patent were issued by the United States Patent and Trademark Office and are presumed by statute to be valid. They are not directed to abstract ideas and moreover contain inventive concepts sufficient to ensure that the patent amounts to significantly more than a patent on a patent ineligible concept itself. The written description of the '4901 patent describes in technical detail each limitation of the claims, allowing a skilled artisan to understand the scope of the claims and how the nonconventional and non-generic combination of claim limitations is patentably distinct from and improved upon what may have been considered conventional or generic in the art at the time of the invention.

30. On information and belief, Bose makes, uses, offers for sale, sells, and/or imports certain personal electronic apparatus configured to be worn by a user including a speaker, a touch sensitive surface, a rechargeable battery, electronic circuitry, and at least one conductive element partially exposed to enable interconnection, including without limitation the Bose QuietComfort Ultra Earbuds (collectively, “’4901 Accused Products”), that directly infringe, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, one or more claims of the ’4901 patent. Identification of additional ’4901 Accused Products may also be provided in infringement contentions disclosed pursuant to the Court’s scheduling order.

31. On information and belief, the ’4901 Accused Products satisfy all claim limitations of one or more claims of the ’4901 patent, including claim 1, as set forth in the preliminary infringement claim chart attached as Exhibit 6.

32. Bose also knowingly and intentionally induces infringement of one or more claims of the ’4901 patent in violation of 35 U.S.C. § 271(b). For example, on June 20, 2024, Plaintiff sent Bose a letter conveying Plaintiff’s belief that Bose products practiced Plaintiff’s patents and required a license. And through at least the filing and service of this Complaint, Bose has had knowledge of the ’4901 patent and the infringing nature of the ’4901 Accused Products. Despite this knowledge of the ’4901 patent, Bose continues to make, use, sell, and offer for sale the ’4901 Accused Products, and to actively encourage and instruct customers and other companies to make, use, sell, import, and offer for sale the ’4901 Accused Products in ways that directly infringe the '4901 patent. Bose does so knowing and intending that these companies and their customers will commit these infringing acts.

33. By making, using, offering for sale, selling and/or importing into the United States the '4901 Accused Products, Bose has injured Plaintiff and is liable for infringement of the '4901 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271.

34. As a result of Bose's infringement of the '4901 patent, Plaintiff is entitled to monetary damages in an amount adequate to compensate for Bose's infringement, but in no event less than a reasonable royalty for the use made of the invention by Bose, together with interest and costs as fixed by the Court.

35. Bose's infringing activities have injured and will continue to injure Plaintiff, unless and until this Court enters an injunction prohibiting further infringement of the '4901 patent, and, specifically, enjoining further manufacture, use, sale, importation, and/or offers for sale that come within the scope of the patent claims.

36. Bose also, within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. § 284, knowingly, willfully, recklessly, egregiously and wantonly continues to infringe the '4901 patent through making, using, selling, offering to sell and/or importing '4901 Accused Products with knowledge that these activities infringe the '4901 patent. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to enhanced damages.

significantly more than a patent on a patent ineligible concept itself. The written description of the '789 patent describes in technical detail each limitation of the claims, allowing a skilled artisan to understand the scope of the claims and how the nonconventional and non-generic combination of claim limitations is patentably distinct from and improved upon what may have been considered conventional or generic in the art at the time of the invention.

39. On information and belief, Bose makes, uses, offers for sale, sells, and/or imports hearing enhancement systems including an audio system configured to receive input signals for broadcasting, and a wireless receiver configured to wirelessly receive up-converted signals and down-convert those signals and modify them based on a at least one hearing characteristic of the user, including without limitation the Bose QuietComfort Ultra Earbuds (collectively, "'789 Accused Products"), that directly infringe, literally and/or under the doctrine of equivalents, one or more claims of the '789 patent. Identification of additional '789 Accused Products may also be provided in infringement contentions disclosed pursuant to the Court's scheduling order.

40. On information and belief, the '789 Accused Products satisfy all claim limitations of one or more claims of the '789 patent, including claim 13, as set forth in the preliminary infringement claim chart attached as Exhibit 7.

42. By making, using, offering for sale, selling and/or importing into the United States the '789 Accused Products, Bose has injured Plaintiff and is liable for infringement of the '789 patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271.

43. As a result of Bose's infringement of the '789 patent, Plaintiff is entitled to monetary damages in an amount adequate to compensate for Bose's infringement, but in no event less than a reasonable royalty for the use made of the invention by Bose, together with interest and costs as fixed by the Court.

44. Bose's infringing activities have injured and will continue to injure Plaintiff, unless and until this Court enters an injunction prohibiting further infringement of the '789 patent, and, specifically, enjoining further manufacture, use, sale, importation, and/or offers for sale that come within the scope of the patent claims.
